THE COOPERATIVE EXTENSION SERVICE

INDIANA ROOM

INTRODUCTION AND PURPOSE

The Cooperative Extension Service developed as a cooperative arrangement between three levels of government; local county government, state government, and the federal government. The Land Grant University in Indiana which is Purdue, the United States Department of Agriculture on the federal level, and the County Council on the local level participate in establishing the Cooperative Extension Service here in Vigo County. The primary program focus is to meet the informal educational needs of the people in Vigo County. The function of the Cooperative Extension Service is: (1) to provide and carry on educational programs in Agriculture, Production and Marketing, Home Economics, Family Living, Management, Public Affairs, Youth, Community Development, and Recreation; and to assist with other university programs of educational research and service established for the welfare of the citizens of Indiana; (2) to conduct 4-H Club and other work with youth; (3) to give information and counsel to producers, distributors, and consumers regarding production, processing and marketing and utilization of agricultural products; (4) to give counsel on technical assistance that will conserve the soil and soil fertility and our other natural resources; (5) to cooperate with the various organizations including farm groups, home economics organizations, and other urban and rural organizations. Therefore our four program areas are Agricultural and Marketing, Community Resource Development, Family Living, and Youth. As stated above the primary function of the Cooperative Extension Service is education, directed towards helping people identify and solve problems in the areas listed by providing scientific and technical knowledge directly to individuals, groups, and organizations. The ultimate decision and action taken in resolution of any specific problem, private or public, is left to the people affected. The Extension Agents in each of the ninety-two counties in Indiana are supported by wide spread research programs at Purdue and other state universities. The Agents have the responsibility to condense the information available and put it in terms that local people can use and appreciate. The Extension Agents work directly with the citizens of the state in helping identify problems, find the various alternatives and assist in selecting the appropriate solutions for the problems.

The following list of dates and laws indicate that the Extension Service has a long history of meeting the current every day needs of the public.

1875--The Philadelphia Society and agricultural group was the first organized effort to give information to farmers.

1872--Massachusetts Society--similar to above.

1863--First Farmers Institute--similar to above.

1862--Morrill Act known as the Land Grant Act establishing the law to put a university in each of the states. Purdue University is Indiana's Land Grant School.

1865--Indiana formally accepted the Morrill Land Grant Act.

1900--4-H boys and girls club work began.

1906--Agricultural Extension established through agricultural experiment station.

1911--Clore Act formally establishing Agricultural Extension.

1912--First County Extension Agent in LaPorte County.

1934--Older youth groups organized in Blackford, Parke and Tipton Counties.

From these humble beginnings the current professional extension staff has grown to about two hundred sixty field staff members and one hundred twenty-five Purdue specialists with at least one Extension Agent in each of the ninety-two counties. Many of the counties have several Extension Agents. In 1963 the state of Indiana legally passed a law establishing the Cooperative Extension Service which was changed from the Agricultural Extension Service. This better reflects the Extension Service of today.

The most important local organization to the Extension Service is the County Extension Board. It's purpose is to make certain that the county program has as its base the problems that are vital to the people of the county. There are additional purposes of the committee but the fundamental one is to have the program of education aimed at meeting the problems and needs of the people.

The County Extension Board provides an organized way through which local people may participate in problem identification, in recognizing that some problems are more important than others and in deciding which problems have priority. The Extension Board has the responsibility of meeting with each of the Extension Agents when presented by the Purdue Administrative staff. The Board then in turn has the veto power in deciding whether they want this Agent employed or whether they would like to consider someone else. Also the Board has overall responsibility for determining the County Extension Office budget each year. They in turn then present this to the County Council for appropriations. The following brochure lists the 1971 Extension Board and officers with their addresses and phone numbers. Also included is the current Constitution and By-Laws of the Extension Board and the Extension Advisory Council showing how each is made up and their term of office.

PLAN OF WORK FOR VIGO COUNTY,
INDIANA

EXTENSION'S MISSION IS EDUCATION

The Cooperative Extension Service is responsible to all citizens of Indiana. Its mission is education--informal, out-of-school, directed toward helping people solve their problems. To accomplish this, Extension provides people with knowledge necessary to cope with the realities of life. It also provides adults with new knowledge as it becomes available. For in today's world, lifelong learning is a must!

Extension's job is carried out by trained professionals dedicated to the idea that well-informed people make sound judgments in their private lives and public affairs. These Extension agents are staff members of Purdue University. They are responsible to local people through the County Extension Advisory Board (a representative group of citizens) and the County Extension Board (the decision-making body for Extension programs).

Financial support for the Extension Service is provided cooperatively by each county, the state of Indiana, and the federal government.

PEOPLE, PROBLEMS, AND POOLS OF KNOWLEDGE

Opportunity for informal education is the right of all the people of Indiana. Many, especially culturally-deprived urban youth, need help in finding their "place in the sun." Consequently, Extension's know-how gained over 50 years of working with farm people is being used to develop similar opportunities for urban people--that is, to help people help themselves. At the same time, programs for farm and home are being improved and strengthened through agent specialization and training.

In dealing with problems of people, Extension personnel first gather and organize pertinent information in forms applicable to a problem's solution. Then they use appropriate educational methods and media to present the information to the people concerned.

Vast reservoirs of scientific and technical knowledge at Purdue and other universities provide the foundation for Extension programs. When new knowledge becomes available, the Extension Service disseminates it. When new problems arise, Extension helps communicate them to the researcher.

VIGO COUNTY DAY CAMP - FAIRGROUNDS

Objectives of Day Camp include:

Provide an opportunity for the youth to gain an outdoor learning experience for young people who need additional experiences to enable them to take an active and productive part in society.

Two 2-day Day Camps were held in 1970 during the month of July at the Vigo County Fairgrounds.

The Day Camp was held from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. using 4-H Jr. Leaders as Counselors. A manager was required to head up the 1970 Day Camp. This person would train the Jr. Leaders, get the food and extra materials required for actual operation of the Day Camp.

The youth at Day Camp included - boys and girls from 7-13 years of age. There was a one-counselor-to-five-campers ratio approximately. Activities offered included: Crafts, Nature Hikes, Treasure Hunt, Pet Talk, Insect Hunt, Show and Tell, Bird Hunt, Flags, Geology, (Rock Hunt), and Forestry Tour and Idea Exchange.

Other items included were:

- a. Limi Sticks
- b. Frisbees
- c. Scream barrel
- d. Beat drum

The majority of equipment used included: Material selected from the youth's living environment. Example: Tires, Sacks, bottles, etc.

Dinner included: An experience of youth actually cooking their own meals on charcoal. Example: light fire, Graham Crackers, marshmallows, (s'mores), toasted cheese sandwiches, hot dogs, hamburgers, potato chips, Hawaiian punch, Space Food Sticks, etc.

The boys and girls selected for Day Camp came from Dresser, North Terre Haute, and South Terre Haute (primarily underprivileged urban boys and girls). Boys and girls were transported to camp by automobiles.

It is believed that $1,000.00 would cover the majority of the costs for 1971 with this figure being used as:

- $500.00 - Camp Manager
- $500.00 - Food Materials, insurance

The Day Camp concept should be reviewed at the end of each summer to see if it actually meets the objectives set forth.

The attached summarizes each of the lined items for the Extension Office and the appropriations for 1971. The salaries listed and the office supply equipment, mileage, etc. are actual items except for additional salary supplemented to the Area Extension Agents only (not secretaries). Additional monies from state and federal funds come through the Purdue Extension Office and supplement the Area Extension salary, approximately on a 1/3, 1/3, 1/3 basis.

SPIRIT

1. Neath the great blue dome of heaven

With its fertile hills and valleys
Stretching out from sea to sea;
And a grateful nation rises
To consecrate the toil

Chorus:

There's a guiding ray that leads the way
As farmers forward go,
We love the name of world-wide fame,
The American Farm Bureau.
Farm Federation,

2. From cotton growing southland
To the northern fields of grain,
From the eastern farms and dairies
To the western fruited plain,
Thru the realm of agriculture
Advancing fearlessly,
Moves the great Farm Bureau spirit
Of progressive unity.
3. Like an army undivided,
True and loyal to a man.
May the farmer be united
